Resignations of Mayor D'Appollonia and Councillor Accepted With Regret by the Town Council

A special meeting of the council, with Deputy Mayor John Balloch presiding, was held on Tuesday. Letters of resignation from Mayor John S. D'Appollonia and Councillor Angelo Gentile were read, and it was with regret that the council accepted same. Letters expressing the sentiments of the council were instructed to be written by the secretary.

The mayor's letter was published last week, giving reasons for asking to be relieved from office. The majority of ratepayers regret the circumstances which caused these resignations, owing to Italy's entry in the war, and it is some satisfaction to note that in his letter of resignation, Mr. D'Appollonia stated that he would be ready at all times to help in any way he could to assist the council in the administration of civic affairs, as had been his practice in the past.

An election will be held on July 3, and Alex. Balloch was appointed returning officer. No mention yet has been made as to who will be the candidates to fill the vacant offices, though it is hinted that acclamations will be likely.

The office of mayor calls for considerable time, as town work is greatly increased over former years. Many problems will require consideration, and it is vitally necessary that careful selection should be made of the man most capable of guiding the interests of the ratepayers. There should be no haphazard choice for such an office. Qualifications for the office and mature judgment are prime necessities in order to serve the ratepayers.

Britain Will Fight Alone

Prime Minister Winston Churchill Stirs Great British Commonwealth of Nations into Supreme Effort to Conquer Evil Swagery of Nazism.—Conscription Act Will Likely Be Adopted.

Some weeks ago Mr. Churchill in a broadcast told the people of Britain: "I offer you nothing but blood, toil, tears and sweat." At that time France was still bravely fighting, Belgium had not surrendered. Today Britain and the Commonwealth of Nations to back up the mother country, must fight alone against Germany and Italy. It will require the entire resources of man power, industrial and agricultural resources to accomplish the overthrow of Nazism and Fascism. Canada is no longer safe from enemy attack, and every Canadian worthy of the name will back up our government to the limit in whatever measures might be imposed to help win the war.

It is no time for party politics, a combined national effort must be made and everyone must bear equality of sacrifice in the Empire's struggle that Democracy might prevail. The testing time is at hand.

Cheque for $1,000 to Ambulance Campaign Given by Italian People of Coleman-Loyalty Expressed in Letter Accompanying Donation

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

To friends who have approached me in regard to coming to this meeting, I said a few days ago that I would be here in spirit only, but that I would be only too glad to co-operate if they deemed it necessary.

At the time, I was waiting for a movement from the Italian people of this town. Rather than offer them the suggestion, I wanted them to come of their own free will. This spontaneous movement came, and I am here this evening for no other reason than that to express my sentiments, and those of the Italian people of the town of Coleman, in this tragic hour, and to offer our humble but sincere donation toward the proposed Coleman ambulance unit for overseas service. They have also asked me to advise and lead them through this crisis. I have accepted on the condition that the ones that are naturalized British subjects always act as such, and that those who are not naturalized act as true Canadians at least while they are in Canada.

I feel that their record for being peaceful-loving citizens of Coleman will be kept and improved on during this crisis. I hope to see the citizens of Italian extraction emerge from this cruel experience, forged into still better Canadians, when the storm is over.

As you know, Italians are chiefly of the Latin race, and as such, if they are true to themselves, act more with their hearts than with their heads. From their Canadian friends they have learned many of the beautiful things of this country, and further have learned to act with their heads. With this in mind, I wish to say that either I or they would not be sincere if we said that we no longer have any sentiments toward the land of our birth. We still feel toward that country for what it stood as we knew it; for its enrichment of civilization with her letters and arts; for her freedom and democracy, and for her teachings to help mankind, and to be loyal to our friends. But we have torn from our hearts that degenerated part of her that thrust the sword into the heart of Democracy, for the savage thirst of power and ambition which destroyed what it took centuries and centuries to build.

In Canada there are about 100,000 Italians, of which the largest percentage are true lovers of freedom and democracy; and they have not forgotten, nor will ever forget, those sacred words "Loyalty, Liberty, and Fraternity" to the others we can only say that their situation is regrettable.

Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, to substantiate my words, I am leaving with you the names and the sentiments of the entire male Italian population of the town of Coleman.

We, the undenamed, of Italian origin, and sons of Canadian birth, numbering 91 residents of Coleman, including the Italian Society, and the Italian Women's Society here, offer $1,000 to the proposed Coleman ambulance unit to be sent overseas. We wish to state that this offer is of our free will, and as a sign of gratitude for the sincere friendship that we have always enjoyed in Coleman from our friends of British and Canadian birth, and all others in this great country. At the same time, we of the Italian community of Coleman, wish to express our unwavering loyalty to the Dominion of Canada, and the British Empire, in its present struggle, and that we dissociate ourselves entirely from the Italian Government in its present policy of declaring war against the Allies.

RUSHTON WAS DELEGATE TO ELKS' CONVENTION

Alberta Elks' Association held their annual convention last week at Red Deer, and Crows' Nest Pass lodges were represented by John M. Rush-ton. W. J. Dick, provincial commissioner of the Boy Scouts, Edmonton, paid tribute to the Elks' organization for interest taken in Boy Scout work, as the Elks sponsor many troops throughout the province, including Coleman. He gave an inspirational address, telling the delegates of the effect of the training on the boys, appealing to members to endeavor to realize that it is an obligation to older men to interest themselves in this patriotic movement.

Three Units from Coleman, Four from Other Pass Towns is Objective; Italian People Give $1,000

Mass Meeting of Citizens Unanimous in Enthusiastic Response to Share in Canada's War Effort—Disastrous Result of Allies Under-Estimating the Savage Ruthlessness of Totalitarian Dictatorships and Military Might Reviewed by George Kellock.

Committees Now Raising Money as Rapidly as Possible

A mass meeting last Friday on resolution decided to purchase three ambulances as a war gift from the town of Coleman. The initial contribution was from the Italian people of this town, Mayor John S. D'Appollonia handing to Chairman George Kellock a cheque for one thousand dollars. The second contribution was from the school teachers of one hundred dollars.

Unanimous consent was given to the proposal, and committees were organized, representing every section of the community, who will arrange the plan of campaign to collect the money. It is estimated that between six and seven thousand dollars should be raised.

Deputy Mayor John Balloch opened the meeting, the band playing "O Canada." He called on Mr. George Kellock to give the opening address. Mr. Kellock stated we had just heard the band playing "We stand on guard for thee," but doubted if anyone in the hall had missed a step or gone out of his way to help win this war. He often wondered if people who inherited the rights and privileges we enjoy as a democratic nation realize that to preserve those liberties, duties must be performed.

These privileges were won by men who gave their lives, and we, also, have to fight to retain these rights. We have taken too many things for granted. Hitler wanted to crush democracy, and thinks it will be easy to do it. He is a smart chap, which we must recognize if we are going to lick him. In the old country labor had been stepped up to fourteen hours a day to meet the emergencies of the war. We have done a lot of fiddling and the sooner we throw away the fiddle and grab a gun the sooner we will win this war. Hitler's method of waging war was such that even savages would not do. He had succeeded beyond his own expectations, because we had underestimated his power and ability. Totalitarian countries, such as Germany, spent money lavishly for propaganda. He reviewed Hitler's marching into the Rhur, then Austria, Czechoslovakia, Danzig, Poland, and then his invasion of peaceful countries such as Denmark, Norway, Holland, Belgium. "Where is it going to stop?" he asked. "It can only be stopped by stopping Hitler!" Surely if our heritage is worth anything we must be prepared to fight for it to defend it. This meeting can raise sufficient money to purchase—not only an ambulance—but ambulances!

The next speaker was John S. D'Appollonia, who spoke with considerable feeling owing to his native country having entered the war. He gave a prepared address, which is published elsewhere in this paper, and to which Mr. Kellock replied in accepting the cheque for $1,000 that as British subjects we appreciated the sentiments of the Italian people more so than the money subscribed.

Wilfrid Dutil, as president of the Red Cross branch, spoke on the proposal that the Crows' Nest Pass pool its effort to purchase ambulances, which was left for the meeting to discuss.

On the stage were J. Atkinson, Angelo Gentile, John Kerr, John Balloch, George Ford, J. S. D'Appollonia, representing the council; M. Stigler, T. McCloy, representing the mine workers; Wilfrid Dutil, Red Cross president; Sidney C. Short, Canadian Legion; G. Pattinson, business men, and George Kellock, chairman, and representing the International and McGillivray companies.

The meeting closed with the band under Fred Beddington playing the national anthem and French national war song.

LONGSHOREMEN OFFER $1.00 PER MONTH

Members of the Longshoremen's Association, Victoria, B.C., have passed a resolution whereby each will donate one dollar per month, to be forwarded to Hon. J. L. Ralston, minister of finance, as their contribution towards Canada's war effort.

CHURCH NECESSARY

Vancouver, June 10. — "The church will be needed every hour of war time, and two hundred fold when the war is over," declared Rev. W. E. Smalley, of Edmonton, secretary of the Baptist Union of Western Canada, before a recent church convention. "Loyalty to Christ and a militant Christianity are essential," said Mr. Smalley.

Wm. Kerr President Musical Festival Committee

Annual Meeting at Blairmore Monday Evening Hears Financial Report; Surplus Balance Shown.

On Monday evening in the Greenhill Grill the annual meeting of the Crows' Nest Pass Musical Festival committee was held. J. E. Upton presided, with W. H. Stobbs as secretary. Members present were A. Bosetti, Rev. E. B. Arrol, B.A., Miss Audrey Martin, Mrs. Richard Upton, H. T. Halliwell, Dr. C. Rose, Mrs. J. H. Farmer, T. Gushul. Following the financial report and reading of minutes, W. Kerr, president; Dr. C. Rose, vice-president; W. H. Stobbs, secretary-treasurer (re-elected).

The executive and financial committees were re-elected, with additions to replace those who had moved from the district. A vote of thanks was passed to Evan Gushul for his work on the finance committee in collecting subscriptions, and soliciting advertisements for the program of the 1940 festival. Though receipts from admissions were down this year in comparison with previous years, the festival showed a surplus of about $60 after all expenses were met. The president and the financial committee were complimented on their work for the year. The credit balance for 1939 was $110, and the reserve fund $404.

Honorary president and vice-presidents appointed are Rev. W. T. Young, of Edmonton; Mrs. D. G. MacKenzie, of Calgary, and G. E. Cruickshank, of Hillcrest, respectively.

Carnival Proposed in July by Canadians Hockey Club

Hope to Get "Out of the Red" and Make Contribution to War Effort as Well.

July 6 and 8 are the proposed dates, and there will be ten major prizes, and War Savings Certificates, a very appropriate form of prizes, which will increase 25% in 74 years. A dance both nights, and the usual booths, gala attractions and new fun devices will be interesting features. To win public support to this effort, 50% of the proceeds will be donated to war service efforts. The hockey club hope to have widespread support in their effort.

HILLCREST MINERS' UNION GIVE $170 TO RED CROSS

One hundred and seventy dollars was voted to the Red Cross at a meeting of Hillcrest Miners' Union on Monday evening, the money to be used for the purchase of an ambulance.

The money is the entire amount which had been laying idle in the union's fund since Hillcrest mine closed down and since there is scant hope of the mine opening up, and with the miners moving to other points, it was felt that it would serve a most useful and patriotic purpose if given to the Red Cross.

SUGGESTS ARMORY FOR COLEMAN

A reader of The Journal writes: As a general precaution along the lines taken by other cities and towns, it would not seem amiss for this town to take steps to prepare for an armory or local of a volunteer unit with it, and it would seem that the Crystal rink could be made fairly suitable at a small expenditure.

SHOULD CLAMP DOWN ON SPEED FIENDS

Though notices were boldly displayed on the highway during the surfacing work carried on this week, cautioning motorists to not exceed 25 miles an hour, some drivers appear to get their figures crossed and read it 62 miles. Road hogs and speed fiends are becoming a serious menace to the careful driver, and it is high time that drastic measures be imposed and a traffic patrol officer kept on the job.

BEDDINGTON'S BIRD WINS RACE FROM LAC LA BICHE IN 11 HOURS, 18 MIN.

The fourth pigeon race was flown from Lac La Biche on Wednesday, June 12. Despite reports of bad weather north of Edmonton, in the line of flight, the birds made fairly good time.

Liberated at 4:35 a.m., the first arrivals were clocked in at 4:17 p.m., with the results as follows: 1st open and pool, F. Beddington; 2nd open and pool, F. Beddington; 3rd open and pool, T. Lycka.

Prizes were tarcon by The Coleman Hardware, Sam's Service Station and Shield's Service Station.

Soviet Russia Is Pouring Troops Into Third Baltic Country

Moscow.—Soviet Russia announced Estonia and Latvia had agreed to free passage of Soviet troops and to formation of new governments which would "ensure honest implementation" of the Soviet's mutual assistance pacts with those two countries.

The announcement was made by Tass Soviet news agency, an arm of the Red Army and tanks and planes were reported in despatches from abroad to be pouring into Lithuania, a third Baltic country.

Lithuania agreed to permit the Soviet to send unlimited numbers of troops into her territory. According to reports, they were sent to garrison the German border.

At the same time, Russia announced she had been informed by the German embassy that "ex-President" Antanas Smetona of Lithuania and several other Lithuanian government officials had been interned in Germany when they stepped across the border.

Stockholm despatches earlier had reported Smetona had fled by plane as Lithuania set about forming a new government.

Russia announced she had demanded free passage into Latvian and Estonian territory for Soviet troops, to be stationed at the most important centres and in sufficient strength to assure carrying out of mutual assistance pacts which were negotiated last fall.

She also announced she had demanded that new governments be formed to carry out the spirit of the mutual assistance pacts.

In notes handed to the Latvian and Estonian ministers, Russia asked Estonia and Latvia not only to cancel a military alliance with Estonia, but also of attempting to extend it by including Lithuania and Finland. She charged the alliance was a "rude violation" of the terms of the Soviet mutual assistance pacts.

Russia negotiated these pacts with the three small Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania last fall immediately after she had shared in the division of Poland.

Her action at the time was interpreted abroad as an attempt to establish outposts against Germany, although no prospective aggressor was particularly named in official Russian references to her need for the new defensive positions.

When she attempted to negotiate a similar pact with Finland, that little northern country refused and fought.

While London and Stockholm despatches said Adolf Hitler's aggression in France may have caused Soviet Russia to seek to strengthen her position in the Baltic, a Soviet announcement discouraged any speculation that Russia is turning away from co-operation with Germany.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, issued a denial of British reports that Moscow is supervising a strengthening of anti-aggression pacts among Roumania, Yugoslavia and Turkey for the purpose of offering "resistance to German and Italian expansion eastward."

Tass is authorized to state that this report "... constitutes a fabrication from beginning to end," said the announcement.

French Gold Removed

Large Holdings Said To Be Safe From Nazi Seizure

New York.—Banking circles here said they believed France's large gold holdings would be safe from Nazi seizure even if Paris falls before the German onslaught.

Impression in informed sources is that the French have already taken all of their gold from the underground vaults in the capital. In March the federal reserve bank estimated France's gold reserve at $2,000,000,000, making it the second largest in the world.

Since then a large slice of the hoard has been sent to the United States for safekeeping and to pay for war purchases. Some of the bullion has been shipped to London and the remainder is believed to be stored in France.

Temporary Suspension

London.—The postmaster-general announced that the Empire air mail services have been temporarily suspended. Principal routes affected provide connections with Malta, Egypt, Palestine, Iraq, India, Ceylon, Burma, Hong Kong, Malaya, Australia, New Zealand, the Sudan, East Africa and South Africa.

Prepare For Refugees

States Toronto Will Serve As A Distribution Centre

Toronto.—Dr. Gordon P. Jackson, Toronto medical health officer, told the health board he had been instructed to be ready to assist in looking after the health of hundreds of English, French, Dutch and Belgian refugee children who might arrive in the city at any time. Toronto will serve as a distribution centre.

The provincial government advised the city health authorities they might only be given a maximum of 36 hours' advance notice. The children, between the ages of nine and 14 years, will arrive in groups of 300 to 500, and will be taken to the Odd Fellows' Home which will be used as a general clearing house.

Honor Has Been Cancelled

Norwegian Traitor Removed From Order Of British Empire

London.—Richard Butler, under-secretary for foreign affairs, announced in the House of Commons that Major Vidkun Quisling, Norwegian Fascist, has been removed from the Order of the British Empire.

Quisling was the chief Norwegian to welcome the German invaders of his homeland.

Mr. Butler explained that Quisling had been named an honorary commander of the order Nov. 22, 1929, in recognition of services rendered the British government in Russia, while serving in Moscow on the Norwegian legation staff.

A Non-Belligerent

Spain Makes A Formal Declaration Of Her Status

Madrid.—Spain declared her non-belligerence in the war in a formal reiteration of her previous declarations.

The government published the following decree: "The following decision is made known to all:

"We have been extended to the Mediterranean by Italy's entry, into the war against Britain and France, the government has declared non-belligerence in the conflict."

The word "neutrality" was not used in the decree. This was in line with the attitude taken by the Spanish press of the last few days.

Italian Shipping

210,855 Tons Said To Be Captured By Allies

London.—Authoritative circles said a total of 210,855 tons of Italian shipping has been captured by the Allies or scuttled by Italian crews since Italy entered the war.

Slightly more than 80,000 tons of this shipping is now in British home waters.

From the beginning of the war, Sept. 3, until Italy's entry, eight Italian ships of 37,619 tons were sunk by German action.

Grim Souvenirs

Graveyard, England.—After German raiders were shelled over a Thames estuary town, townspeople sold the shell splinters as souvenirs.

EDEN AND DILL DISCUSS THE SITUATION

A picture, which some day may be included in all the history books in the world, depicts Anthony Eden, Britain's new War Minister, leaving No. 10 Downing Street with Sir John Dill, Britain's new Chief of the Imperial General Staff, after discussing the evacuation of the British Expeditionary Force from Flanders.

Japanese Bomb Attack

Soviet Embassy In Provisional Chinese Capital Badly Damaged

Chungking, China.—The Soviet embassy was badly damaged by bombs as Japanese warplanes subjected this provisional Chinese capital to the heaviest attack since May of last year.

It was the first time a foreign embassy in Chungking suffered a direct hit.

Amid the ruins of his embassy grounds, badly torn up by four 500-pound bombs, the Soviet ambassador declared he and his staff would carry on, although the main building was unusable.

Two bombs fell in the garden of the British ambassador's home but the building was not damaged.

The German Trans-Oceanic News Agency's quarters were demolished and those of the British United Press were seriously damaged when a 500-pound bomb from a Japanese airplane fell a dozen yards from the hotel in which various news services are housed.

Italians Must Register

Order Affects All Naturalized In The Last Ten Years

Ottawa.—All Italians naturalized since September, 1929, are required to register and are forbidden to possess arms, under regulations contained in an order-in-council passed under authority of the Defence of Canada regulations.

The order also provides for fingerprinting and the precautionary measures required by their regulations in recording particulars of those detained.

To Strengthen Canada's Navy

Ottawa.—Under projected expansion of the strength of the Royal Canadian navy from around 6,000 men to 10,000 by the end of this year, an estimated 459 officers and 3,738 ratings are to be recruited. For war service in the navy, men are taken at ages from 18 to 30 and even at higher ages in case of special qualifications.

Britain Will Throw All Her Resources Into The Struggle

London.—This "blackest week in history" for Britain and France drew from official circles the declaration that "whatever happens Britain will fight on" against Nazi Germany, while press and radio turned eager, speculative eyes on "the prospects of American intervention."

Confronted with the fall of Paris hard in the wake of Italy's entry into the war as a foe of the Allies, Britain flung open its war chest to make immediate purchases of everything needed to prosecute the conflict.

The "intervention" and "blackest week" quotations both came from British radio commentators, who said the prospect of the former more than counterbalanced the latter.

The London News Chronicle said: "A declaration of war by America now would inject an impulse of bounding hope into every Frenchman's heart."

"The effect on the Nazis would be correspondingly depressing."

"Now, in this momentous crisis, America may have it in her power to tide civilization over its darkest hour by a strong dramatic act."

The newspaper's commentator, Vernon Bartlett, said he believed 150 German divisions (about 2,250,000 men) had been identified in the present Battle of France and that "many more" remained in reserve.

"Faced with such odds," he said, "it is doubtful whether anything short of a declaration of war by the United States could effectively alter the situation."

The Daily Mail and the Laborer Herald hailed at Britain's previous "compliance" and "fantastic unpreparedness," but both counselled postponement of the "inquest" until later.

Previous conceptions of a "long war" were abandoned. Immediate, wholesale purchase of every tool of battle available in North America was ordered.

In the momentous decision that the tide must be turned in France within weeks at most, the British government made it clear they were going all out to obtain post-haste guns and ammunition, even of first Great War vintage, to supply tonies streaming back onto the continent on return tickets from the disaster of Flanders.

At the expense of home defence, Britain coupled all her stored-up economic resources with manpower, staking everything on a light in France behind the abandoned city of Paris.

The British decision was a sudden turn from the long war plan aimed at starving out Germany—as was done in 1918. Government sources disclosed that war funds allocated for years now are released for spending in weeks.

In effect, it is an economic blitzkrieg to meet the piled-up Nazi war stores and men pressing ever deeper into France and to offset, as best it can, the loss of 75 to 80 per cent. of France's steel producing plants, now in German-occupied territory.

Most French ammunition plants are in the south and thus still in Allied hands.

The government now is more concerned with obtaining war materials already fabricated in the United States. Left-overs from the last war are sought urgently to replace the arms lost in the historic withdrawal from the Flanders' pocket.

Speed of delivery is the keynote of the new campaign, with the depletion of war measures in weeks instead of years.

The weapons sought are those that the United States manufactured toward the end of the last war to replace those obtained by the United States from the Allies.

Specifically mentioned are American 75's, capable of piercing big German tanks, and the American-manufactured British Enfield rifles.

Premier Reynaud Sends Out Appeal For Aid For France

Tours, France.—Premier Reynaud in a radio speech said he had sent last appeal for help to President Roosevelt.

"The soul of France is not beaten," he said. "The life of France, however, is at stake."

Waves of planes from the United States will be necessary to stop the Nazis he said.

"We know the place held by ideals in the life of the great American people," he said. "Will they hesitate longer to declare themselves against Nazi Germany?"

"Mishap has come to France, I call to the world," Reynaud declared. "I must tell them of the heroism of our soldiers—these soldiers who for six days and nights have been fighting, broken by marching and fatigue. But this is not the end of the war. It is not the end of our fatherland."

The premier said France's soul is "not broken."

"The world must know it. Every free man must know that France's army, the vanguard of liberty, has sacrificed itself."

"They have fought with vigor and heroism, they have brought down innumerable enemy planes, they have inflicted severe losses on the enemy."

Reynaud said his "last appeal" to the United States was "for all legal aid."

"It is necessary that clouds of airplanes come from across the Atlantic to crush the evil power that has descended over Europe."

"We wait with hope in our hearts."

An earlier request from Reynaud to Roosevelt for all help short of an expeditionary force was made public. It had been drafted on June 10—the day Italy entered the war.

"It is France's life which is at stake," the premier said in the broadcast.

"The fighting is getting more painful, but we have the right to hope that the day will approach when our cause will prevail."

"The day will come and must come."

"Our race does not allow itself to be beaten down by invasion. Our fight has no sense if we do not see far ahead the image of victory."

Reynaud said the French government quit Paris because it was necessary to "prevent Hitler from suppressing the legal government and declaring to the world that France has no government except a puppet government."

"Whatever may happen in the forthcoming days," he said, "Frenchmen will remember the task of their nation and will unite around the wounded fatherland until the day of resurrection."

"The day of our resurrection will come," he concluded.

"The heroism of the armies of Dunkirk (in Flanders)," he said at one point, "has been exceeded in the fighting from the sea to the Argonne."

"Our race has always thrown back or dominated invaders."

"The world must know what they owe it (the French race)."

"The hour has come for them to pay their debt."

Reynaud then declared: "At a moment when fortune overwhelms them, I wish to cry out to the world of the heroism of our soldiers, the heroism of our chiefs."

"I have seen arrive from the battle men who had not slept in five weeks, harassed by airplanes, fatigued by long marches and heavy combats."

"These men, whose nerves the enemy thought broken, had no doubt about the final issue of the war. They had no doubt about the future of the fatherland."

"Despite our reverses," said Reynaud, "the power of the democracies remains immense. We have the right to hope that the day is coming when that full power will be placed in force. This is why we have hope in our hearts."

"France is great because it never has given in to the advice of defeatists," said the premier.

"No matter what happens in the coming days," he warned, "the French are going to suffer. May they be worthy of the past of their nation! May they become brothers! May they unite about the wounded fatherland. The day of resurrection will come!"

NOTES AND COMMENTS

INTERESTING incidents in connection with the war. Conversing with a well-known resident of the district not so far from Coleman, he stated that he gave up smoking last winter and the money saved he sent to London for dart boards costing nearly two dollars each to be sent to the troops. He already has sent several, so likely he sent more than he saved on tobacco. At the time of the Altmarm incident, the daring of the "Cossack's" crew in boarding the prison ship in a Norwegian fiord so thrilled his imagination that he had two dart boards sent to that destroyer. He was highly pleased to receive official recognition of the present from the officers.

ASKING him if he did not feel the longing for a smoke now and then, he admitted he did, but felt he could keep off it for quite awhile longer. It was also interesting to learn why he quit. He came to a hockey match here last winter, and he had a touch of the flu at the time. Coleman was so badly trimmed in an 11-1 defeat by Lethbridge that it made him feel so terribly bad that he couldn't even enjoy a smoke. Since then he hasn't had a smoke, hence the reason for sending his money to buy dart boards. A kind and thoughtful act, and one which is well worthy of emulating.

ANOTHER gentleman who has given much time to community affairs was discussing contributions to war charities. He told of setting one chap in his place for not responding to an appeal. The man appealed to gave a miserly donation to the Red Cross, though, as a single man, he was earning good wages. He was not a Canadian, and had got his job because Canadian lads had volunteered, leaving their jobs to be taken by those who stayed at home. It is such incidents as these which show there are slackers who cause many to urge that conscription of men and money is the best way to promote Canada's war effort. In the last war slackers were presented with white feathers.

ENTHUSIASM at last Friday's meeting indicated that Coleman people are wholeheartedly behind any local project to raise money to help win the war. Many at the meeting were quite ready to drop ten dollars right in the hat if it had been passed, and one or two went to the president of the Red Cross after the meeting and gave donations, stating that if more collections were made, they would give to them, too. However, by the time this is in print, the committee appointed last Friday will likely have organized their campaign to raise sufficient money to purchase ambulances or whatever is needed. $5,000 should be the minimum raised for this purpose, particularly after the fine start given by the Italian people with a cheque for $1,000. If 91 people can do that as a group, the rest of us who are working should raise at least $7,000.

ANOTHER incident worth recording concerns a young man old enough to know better who allowed his tongue to wag too freely in a beer parlor a few miles from Coleman. He made a slighting remark to another man, who was minus one hand, flag of Empire.

stating that he was safe as he would not be called for military service. The gentlemen with the one hand quickly showed that it was powerful enough to give the sarcastic gent a punch that almost knocked him "cuckoo," and in the bargain he was brought before Magistrate Gresham for using language detrimental to the Allied cause. People with loose tongues, and smart Alecks, should be very careful.

FINANCE Minister Ralston complimented two young men of the Junior Board of Trade of Winnipeg for individual effort as a contribution towards winning the war. In effect their suggestion is that Canada act the good neighbor to visitors from the United States, by extending them every courtesy when they are in Canada. We want American dollars as well as their moral and material support, for this war is costing an enormous sum, and the money that comes here through tourist traffic will enable purchases of Canada's war needs to be paid for. Mr. Ralston also stated that voluntary help was the best kind of support to give Canada. In this respect every man, woman and child can help by purchasing War Savings Stamps. The importance of this cannot be too strongly urged on parents, teachers, everyone.

WHEN hiring upstarts try to impress people by bombast that they are the "real McCoy," they should be set in their places. Propagandists paid for a definite purpose, usually to foment trouble between peoples who otherwise would live at peace are always a source of danger, from the high pinnacle of international affairs down to small town politics. Usually people wake up to the danger after a lot of trouble has developed. The Crows Nest Pass was infiltrated several years ago by paid agents whose mission was to cause discord and strife, and they succeeded, too, for a time, until they were decidedly squashed. But some of them are still around and in the pay of someone. Too many enemy aliens are abroad today who should be locked up.

COLEMAN people are capable of running their own municipal affairs—or they should be—without allowing outside paid agents interfering. Be on guard against subtle propaganda and under-cover work.

VERY indignant, and rightly so, a lady of a town patriotic organization telephoned to this office asking why the flag was not flying at the town hall. Twice she stated complaints had been made, and on the King's birthday it was not hoisted till the afternoon, while on the day of Hon. Norman Rogers' funeral it was not hoisted at all. In times like these above all else this is absolute negligence that brings severe criticism. It is time the council insisted that the flag be hoisted and that instead of a tattered rag a new flag be purchased. Also that it be hoisted each morning and hauled down at night. Surely someone can be delegated to do this job. The council is paying wages to someone around the town hall, and it is time they awoke and honored the flag of Empire.

Business Men's Section of Ambulance Fund Campaign

On Tuesday the business men's section of the Ambulance Fund campaign met in the council chamber and the teams appointed to canvass all stores, offices and professional men for donations. The list was headed by John S. D'Appolonia with $100.00, George Pattinson and Wilfrid Dutil with $50 each and various other amounts from $25 down, a complete list of which will be published if received in time for this issue, otherwise next week. According to resolution at the mass meeting last Friday, three ambulances is the objective.

All employees will be asked to contribute 2% of the current month's wages, as the mine-workers have agreed to contribute a like amount. 23 of the 61 business men attended the meeting.

Pete Lombardo, driving a new Chevrolet coupe, left the road east of Hosmer on Sunday crashing into the ditch, the car coming to rest on its hood. It is reported the three occupants escaped injury but the car was badly damaged.

Donald J. MacNeil advises The Journal that he had accepted a position with the McColl-Fontenac Oil Company and will leave Tulsa, Oklahoma, as soon as he and Mrs. MacNeil can pack. He states he is looking forward to meeting old friends in Alberta.

What to do when the bug bites you!

WHEN the bug to own a new McLaughlin-Buick bites you, you'll figure that this car must be looked at first—if you're going to have anything to go on in judging 1940 values. You'll realize it doesn't cost a cent to find out how one feels under your own hand and what the delivered prices are. So you'll walk in, please, to a Buick dealer and have a good look at that car that's showing the rest of 'em what modern style is. You'll try out that big straight-eight engine that's electrically balanced after assembly for smoothness to match a wrist watch's works. You'll find out how those big soft coil springs smooth out that rough stretch down the street. And you'll find that Buick's low delivered prices are often only a few dimes more a day than on cars in the lowest-price class—so why hesitate or haggle? When the bug bites you, get the facts—and you'll get a Buick and be happy!

Strong... Vital

BREAD contributes to the most important nutritional needs—in large part helps to give Canada its high health record.

Delicious, nourishing bread supplies one-fourth of the food energy of Canadians.

Its rich carbohydrate content makes it the best and cheapest source of human fuel. And, made with its usual present-day milk formula, bread is also an important source of protein, equal to meat in maintaining muscular energy.

Eat more bread—and meet today's emergencies with greater vitality and energy!

Mrs. Nicholas Died at Noon

Mrs. Charles Nicholas died at noon to-day quite unexpectedly. Since Tuesday she had been ill, and at 10 a.m. this morning was moved to hospital. By noon she had passed away. Further details were not available at time of going to press. The Journal, with friends throughout the Pass, express deep sympathy to Mr. Nicholas and family in their bereavement.

St. Cyril's Church, Bellevue Silver Jubilee

Observing the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Roman Catholic church, on Wednesday, July 3, open air Pontifical High Mass will be celebrated by the Most Rt. Rev. T. P. Carroll, bishop of Calgary, at 10.30 a.m. At 1.30 p.m. a banquet will be held in the I.O.O.F. hall, Bellevue.

Rev. John B. O'Dea is the pastor, and he has given splendid service in the parish since he came west from London, Ont., several years ago. Many friends and members of the church will meet for this observance.

URGES CONSCRIPTION

William Irvine, in People's Weekly, Edmonton, states:

"Conscription of wealth and resources is essential in this war. This does not mean and need not mean conscription of men. The greatest needs of Britain and France are modernized equipment. One thousand planes and a thousand first-class tanks would do more to win the war than any number of battalions of infantry with nothing to fight with but rifles. The point is that no government faced as our government is with a fight for the life of the nation should have to beg either for money or resources. It should take possession of these things at once and use them wisely and well for the protection of the State."

MUST ALL DO OUR BIT

Going by a shop window lately we saw a placard that emphasized the words "They are fighting for you." Stopping to investigate, we discovered that it was an announcement of enterprising manufacturers, who by such means sought to exploit the war situation to their own personal profit. There are too many similar cases at present. The tendency is to commercialize for selfish ends the most sacred things. At a time when people generally ought to be making every sacrifice that may be required in order to win the war, too many persons evidently are more concerned with what they can get out of it than what they can put in. They have plenty of suggestions as to what others may do for the boys overseas or serving in training camp if it will help to speed up business, but are not willing to do very much themselves. That is not the spirit that will win the war. We must all be willing to do our bit to the limit of our ability in order that success may be finally and successfully attained.—Worville, N.S., Acadian.

Learning their 3 R's with Remington Noiseless Typewriters

● Every parent has watched with keen interest the advancement and development of the five pretty little girls, now world famous as the "Dionne Quintuplets." The best scientific methods have been used in their rearing. Many have been the speculations and conjectures as to their future. But they are growing up—

They are now getting their first taste of schooling in the three R's. It was here Remington Rand was called in to supply the important tool in their education—the typewriter. Naturally we are proud to be so honored by the Guardians in whose charge "the five most famous girls in the world" will prepare to be "ladies."

Educators, engineers and technicians got busy. The Remington Noiseless Portable was agreed upon as the perfect machine for these fifty famous fingers and

Dr. Dafoe concurred, (and he knows for his office in Calander is exclusively equipped with two Remington Noiseless Typewriters). Then, too, these machines require less effort for tiny tots to operate.

But that's not the whole story—while the Remington Noiseless Portable's feather touch requires less effort to operate, and QUIET nerve soothing typing makes progress easier, another most important step was yet to be taken—a new Keyboard that would—be standard—do languages—mathematics—all other types of school work—and prepare the child to use any standard typewriter in the future. This keyboard has now been devised, "The 5-purpose Quintuplet Educational Keyboard." It is ready not only for the Dionne Quintuplets—but also for YOUR CHILDREN.

ORIGINATOR OF THE FIRST TYPEWRITER KEYBOARD A B C Develops D E F Quintuplet Educational Keyboard

● Most children advance more rapidly in school and classroom work with the aid of a typewriter. This was proven in the report of a dramatic 5-year series of important most revealing scientific tests, conducted by two of the nation's most prominent educators. To meet the need for improvement in such an important educational tool, Remington Rand has developed and perfected the 5-purpose Quintuplet Educational Keyboard, that is first—standard, second—adjustable to languages, third—will do all types of school work, fourth—do mathematics, fifth—prepare children to use any standard typewriter. Remember, children learning to type on the new Quintuplet Educational Keyboard will be able to type at any time in the future on any standard keyboard! Be sure to see it at your dealer's or at your local Remington Rand office.

At your Remington Dealer's store or any Remington Rand office get your application for the "Digest of an Experimental Study on the Educational Influences of the Typewriter" & "How a Typewriter Will Help My Child."

Victoria Rebekahs lodge met on Tuesday evening for the final meeting of the season before a two-month recess. A social hour was held at the close of the business period. After lunch the drawing of the tickets for the two articles on raffle took place.

The first, an emblematic cushion, crocheted and donated by Mrs. Wm. Holstein, was won by Mrs. C. F. Dunlop.

The second, Madeira pillow cases, donated by Mrs. T. Holstead, were won by Mrs. Edgar Ash.

Well Done, Bellevue!

Jim Tutte, C.P.R. agent at Bellevue, reported that $800 had been collected from the business men and Canadian Legion at Bellevue for The Pass ambulance fund.

At a meeting in Blairmore last Saturday, Rev. R. Upton was appointed president, Mayor Enoch Williams vice-president, J. Tutte secretary and George E. Cruickshank treasurer of the Pass ambulance fund, embracing Blairmore, Bellevue, Hillcrest and Frank. Reeve Donkin of Frank is boosting for the fund there. Their campaign is to be completed by Monday next, when final reports will be submitted.

HOMES FOR REFUGEES

Mr. and Mrs. James Jempson, of Calgary, were the week-end guests of Mrs. Jempson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hadley.

ENGLAND OR BRITAIN

(Christian Science Monitor)
From time to time some indignant voice is raised protesting against the use of the word "England" where the whole island, including Scotland and Wales, is intended. Shakespeare may be pardoned for describing England as "bound in with the triumphant sea," for he wrote before James of Scotland had ascended to the English throne.

But what can be said about Edmund Burke who in his correctly described "Address to the British Colonists in North America," ventured to speak of "the English Colonies?" Or of William Pitt, a prime minister, who could so overlook the sister countries as to say, "England has saved herself by her exertions, and will, I trust, save Europe by her example?" In the heat of battle, Nelson, commanding the British fleet, was thoughtless enough to say that "England expects that every man will do his duty." Happily the dignity of the Union is preserved in the patriotic song "Rule Britannia." Though all the poets from Shakespeare to Kipling and most of the statesmen down to the end of the last century were wont to speak of England when they meant Britain, today the word is frowned upon in British circles. The statesmen must discipline their tongues, the journalists their pens.

BAD NEWS FOR HERR HITLER

THE last time Canadians fought a war we had one big economic strength—wheat. We still grow the best wheat in the world. But now we are also among the world's leaders in many types of manufactures and in metal and forest products. This variety of production makes Canada economically stronger than in 1914. It is bad news for Herr Hitler.

The textile industry provides employment for one in every five Canadian industrial workers. And textiles stand second among all the Dominion's industries in wages paid each year.

Dominion Textile's plant employees earn 22.7% more per hour than in 1929, while price lists are 16.2% lower.

Helps
CANADA

EVERY year well over 10,000,000 tourists visit Canada from the United States. They spend some $250,000,000 in the Dominion. Canada's tourist trade has become one of the most important sources of the country's national income. Under stress of war, American tourist dollars are vital in providing needed exchange. Canada's Chartered Banks materially assist in promoting this valuable trade. Over 3,000 branch offices provide the tourist with familiar banking services throughout the Dominion—often in the most remote areas. At any of these branches travellers' cheques are cashed, drawings under letters of credit negotiated, money exchanged, tourist information gladly furnished by managers and staff. By friendly, courteous treatment and efficient service, Canada's Chartered Banks add to the warmth of welcome and encourage the stranger within our gates to return another year.

[In war, as in peace, Canada's Chartered Banks maintain, uninterrupted, all their services to depositors, farmers, manufacturers, exporters—facilitating the nation's business—looking forward to peace with freedom as the only sure basis for enduring prosperity.]

Military conscription of the British population of the Straits Settlements has been voted by the council, the Exchange Telegraph Agency reported in a despatch from Singapore.

The British ministry of supply undert an order issued brought some 15,000 firms under government control and subject to directions issued by government departments under the new conscription of property act.

Total building construction contracts awarded by the defence purchasing board and successor purchasing bodies now number 275, and amount to almost $18,000,000, the department of munitions and supply announced.

Motorized Bicycles

Can Make Up To 150 Miles On A Gallon Of Gasoline

Bicycles in Britain have recently taken unto themselves tiny air-cooled engines of one horse power. More than 10,000 of them were made last year and when war broke out a dozen British manufacturers producing these motorized bicycles were flooded with orders from overseas.

These economical infants of the war-time roads are improved pedal cycles rather than inferior motor cycles, and are officially known as "autocycles," although they are often nicknamed "Willfreds."

Yet they are certainly not toys, for they will carry a 170-pound rider up a gradient of 1 in 15 without pedal assistance, travel up to 30 miles an hour, and achieve up to 150 miles on one gallon of gasoline and lubricating oil mixture—Brookville Recorder and Times.

Three Sons Of The Late Baron Tweedsmuir With The Forces

The three sons of the late Lord Tweedsmuir are serving with the forces.

William Buchan has donated the Royal Air Force blue as an air-craftsman. He is 24 and unentered. He has never been in the air.

His other brothers are with the Canadian Active Service Force. John, the new Lord Tweedsmuir, is a member of the Governor-General's Foot-guards and is attached to headquarters staff of the 1st Division, Alastair, youngest of the trio, is attached to Canadian military headquarters in London. He is a member of Princess Louise Dragon Guards, now a mechanized cavalry unit.

Red Cross Carries On

Appeal For Blankets Has Met A Quick Response

The appeal for "Blankets for France" has been answered wholeheartedly by the people of Saskatchewan. Already the total is 3,500 and 78 cases are on their way for the wounded French soldiers and the refugees in France. Blankets have come from all corners, and in wonderful numbers from some small places. Each train brings more.

The promise of 50 ambulances to the British Red Cross has been filled by well-to-do individuals, industrial firms and service clubs of Canada. In Saskatchewan the Junior Red Cross, the city of Moose Jaw, the Regina Rotary Club, Kindergarten and District, the town of Melfort, Saskatchewan Association of Rural Municipalities, Hotel Men's Association, Saskatchewan Wheat Pool Employees' Association, the city of Prince Albert, and the Moose Jaw Employees of the C.P.R. have each promised one. It had been enjoined by the National Office of the Red Cross that no Red Cross branch or unit should allocate funds for the purpose since, from our last National Campaign, the Canadian Society has donated to the British Red Cross $100,000.00. In London it has opened its warehouse of supplies of hospital garments and field comforts to both the British and the French Red Cross. During the days of the historic evacuation of Flanders we were glad to donate of the supplies made by the women of Canada of the approximate valuation of $100,000.00. There is more to follow for the British and for the French.

Real Need Of Modern Hotel Is Accommodation For Cars

Hotel men from 40 states met recently in Chicago to look into the future and prepare for the expected boom in American vacation travel which will result from a foreshortened travel frontier growing out of troubled conditions abroad. And looking into the future for business they found good cause to look back into the past, when inn keepers not only provided accommodations for the traveller, but for his beast as well. For the situation now in the automobile age is more or less analogous to the days of overland travel when if mine host accepted the traveller and board he needed also to accept the wayfarer's agency of transport.

So modern hotel men are convincing themselves that if the service ideas of old-time inns are to be met, wherein all the needs of travellers are to be anticipated and served, the automobile and its overnight housing cannot be ignored. No traveller of old carried his animal to be tied at the curb overnight, nor did he expect to patronize a distant stable for oats and stall for his animal. He expected and got combined accommodations, and modern inn keepers are surveying the probability that the traveller who moves about on wheels will appreciate similar companionship of service, closely combined.—Brandon Sun.

A Convenient Place

Britain Will Intern Alien Women On Isle Of Man

The Isle of Man, chosen by British officials as a safe and convenient place for internment several thousand German and Austrian women, lies exactly midway between England and Ireland, 31 miles from each, in the Irish Sea.

Having won home rule from England nearly a century ago, the island has enjoyed peace with its fishing, farming and profitable tourist trade. Its tailless Manx cats have been its most famous products.

Earlier, however, the island was a scene of wild Viking invasions, shifts of ownership from Norway to Scotland to England, revolts, and unsavoury smuggling ventures in the covers of its rugged coast.

The alien women will find themselves interned on an island of some 60,000 men—and women. Despite its name, the Isle of Man was not so called to honor its menfolk, but was named in ancient Bretonish speech, Mona, meaning a "distant isle."

I Read---And Write---For You

By JOHN C. KIRKWOOD

If you were in a spelling match, and were asked to spell this word, 4-n-propylcyclohexanol, you'd probably ask the giver out. It sounds like a premonition. At this several times before you began to trip over the spelling. This word is the name of a chemical substance derived from the liquefying of wood—for science is now able to turn wood into water—not, however, H₂O. This liquefying of wood has been accomplished by Professor Harold Hibbert of McGill University.

Talk about astronomical figures! Astrophysicists have calculated that the sun has been radiating its life-giving heat or energy for 5,000,000,000 years! This may be the same as saying that the universe is five billion years old. And these same wisemen say that the sun burns up about 4,000,000 tons of its mass a second! It burns, but is not consumed. Or, to put it another way, in the language of these same astronomers: the carbon in the sun is forever being devoured in flames of fire, yet replaced, yet renewed, by the original state every 52,550,000 years. This whole wonderful matter in one that is not likely to make any of us suspicious.

Here's an idea, namely: the 1929 slump or crash was due to our changing appetite. This view is urged by Frederick Strauss, spokesman for the National Bureau of Economic Research of the United States. Mr. Strauss argues that the agricultural depression of the 1920's in the United States was an immediate cause of the industrial depression of 1929. The decline in the consumption of wheat and the replacement of wheat by other products—dairy products, eggs, tobacco, chickens, and staple commodities other than wheat—had a very disturbing effect on the economy of agriculture; the shift from a coarse bulk diet to a varied quality diet was too abrupt, Mr. Strauss contends.

SPORTS STYLE BUTTONS AT BACK

By Anne Adams

There's a fresh, clean-cut, American spirit about Pattern 4463. It's an Anne Adams dress, which explains its unusual verve and originality. That built-up-back idea is ingeniously young combined with the bow of the sash which comes from the front panel and winds all around. There are shoulder-to-shoulder yokes at both front and back, made on a striking crossgrain. You might have the yokes and sleeves in sprightly contrast. Notice the smart front panel and the new touch of buttons that march down either side to below the waist. Omit the sleeves and you'll have a real sportster!

Pattern 4463 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 5 1/2 inch fabric.

MALACHI DEMANDS HONESTY TOWARD GOD

Golden text: Bring ye the whole tithe into the storehouse, that there may be food in my house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it. Malachi 3:10.

Lesson: Malachi.

Devotional reading: Matthew 6: 19-24.

Explanations and Comments

Malachi Accuses the People of Robbing God, Malachi 3:7-12. From time immemorial you have turned away from my ordinances, the expressions of my will, and have not kept them, but if you will turn about and obey them, I will pardon you and your fathers. That is the message that Malachi speaks of as coming from Jehovah. Wherein shall we return, in what respects have we not obeyed these? The people question, being represented here, as often throughout the book of Malachi, as answering back instead of accepting.

Will a man rob God?—a question which calls for an emphatic negative answer: yet ye rob me. Note Malachi's argumentative, a matter-of-fact way of putting things. His regular formula is first a statement of a principle (as in verse 7), or a question (Wherein shall we return? Wherein have we robbed thee?), followed by a refutation of their objection (You have robbed me in tithes and offerings).

Wherein have we robbed thee? In their self-complacency the people will not admit that there has been any sin on their part. An expositor has given this word "Wherein" as a subtitle of his book upon Malachi, calling it the prophet's key word. See 1:2, 1:6, 1:7, 2:17, 3:7, 3:8, 3:13. The Faithful Few, Malachi 3:13-8. They that feared Jehovah spoke one with another, "nourishing their faith by believing speech with the like-minded." The more the angry spoke against God, the more the godly spoke among themselves for God's sake. Jehovah heard, and a book of remembrance was written before him, for them that feared Jehovah.

Plague In Our Homes

Health Authorities Everywhere Warn Against Menace Of House Fly

With the approach of warmer weather, communities are again faced with one of the greatest menaces of mankind, the common house fly.

Doctors and writers in medical journals have pointed out, repeatedly and emphatically, the serious consequences of neglect in stamping out this plague in our homes. Consider, for instance, that scientific tests have shown that the bacteria on the hairy body of a single fly may number as many as five million and that the public consumption of beef, mutton, and pork can thus infect a single household. Yet, in spite of these warnings, many people far too often accept the fly's existence and tolerate its presence as an inevitable evil associated with sunny days and fine weather.

Every year, unfortunately, we pay dearly for this indifference with outbreaks of infectious diseases. The summer dysentery of babies and other maladies can often be traced to these germs, born and matured in filth which they eventually regurgitate on our food.

Several methods to control fly breeding have been advocated by health authorities but it is practically impossible to completely eliminate these pests. However, it is possible by killing any flies that do get into our homes to prevent them from transmitting filth and countless germs to our dinner tables, our babies' feeding bottles, and drinks and food left uncovered.

One of the most convenient and effective methods of controlling flies in the home is to place a few Wilson's Fly Pads at strategic locations throughout the house. They work quickly, cleanly, and kill all the flies. By doing this all during the summer, they contribute in a large measure to the elimination of the fly menace in our homes and eating places, thus making our community safer and cleaner.

HAY FEVER

Hay fever can be cured. The larger number of cases are caused by pollen from windborne pollinated plants, including certain grasses, weeds, especially ragweed, and wild. Flowering plants such as the rose, dandelion and goldenrod cannot be blamed. Certain foods, powders, animal dandruffs and feathers may act as causes.

Can everyone does not contract hay fever. It occurs in persons with an inherited sensitivity to one or other of the causes. Over 80 per cent. of persons who suffer from hay fever or asthma have inherited a sensitivity to the various agents.

- (1) Grasses such as timothy, red top, blue grass and others.
- (2) Trees such as the cottonwood, oak of many species.
- (3) Weeds, of which the chief offenders are ragweed. It is said that 70 per cent. of all hay fever victims in America owe their trouble to common ragweed and related species.

Hay Fever seasons: Grasses and trees as a rule, cause attacks in the Spring and early Summer, whereas weeds cause the late summer and early Fall attacks.

In Canada, the common ragweed, the chief offender, is found at its worst in the southwestern peninsula of Ontario, and almost equally so in the rest of settled Ontario and Southern Quebec. Through all the sparsely settled North, from Gaspe to Rainy River and even on the prairie, the ragweed found is usually the related perennial ragweed of the West or the great ragweed both of which occur rather sparingly eastward. Relief depends on:

- (1) Getting beyond the bounds of the plant to which the individual is sensitive, or
 - (2) Having determined what pollen is responsible, submitting to desensitization with the appropriate pollen extract for protection.
- Change of Climate: Sensitive persons should get away in the hay fever season to resorts on the north shore of the St. Lawrence, on the Gaspe coast or nearby Lake Superior or Rainy River. Comfortable places at still will be found in either area.
- Desensitization treatment: A series of small scratches is made on the surface of the skin without piercing the true skin. On these scratches extracts of pollen, animal dandruff, food or dusts, etc., are placed. If a hive or reddened area is produced by one or more of the extracts used, it is an indication that the individual is sensitive to that particular product. Having discovered the cause or causes, the next step is to desensitize by injecting a small quantity of the offending agent or agents.

Treatment should be begun two months before the season when the attack usually occurs. If the attacks occur in the fall, it will be necessary to continue the desensitization for three or four months. Most of the suffering caused by hay fever can be cured, it has been worth while.

CHAPTER VII.

Ingle was a man of wide political activities. No party man in the sense that he found a party to match his own views; rather, he was one of those violent and compelling thinkers who are unconsciously the nucleus of a movement. His grudge against the world was a sincere one. He saw injustice in the simplest consequences of cause and effect. His opinions had not made him a thief; they had merely justified him in his disregard for the law and his obligation to society. Imprisonment had made him neither better nor worse, had merely confirmed him in certain theories. Inconsequently, he loathed his prison associates, men who had been unsupported by his high motives in their felonies. The company of them was contamination. He hated the chaplain; and only one inmate of that terrible place touched him in him still remained tender. That was the old blind horse who had his stable in the prison, and whose sight seemed to have been destroyed by Providence that he might not witness the degradation of the superior mammals that tramped the exercise ring, or, shackled like beasts, went trudging by his high motives up the hill and through the gates.

He was the one man in the prison who was thankful when the cell door closed on him and the key turned in the lock. The foulness of these old lags, their talk, their boasts, the horrible things that may not be written about — he could not think back without feeling physically sick. In truth he would not have stretched out his hand if, by so doing, he could have opened those cell doors and released to the world the social sweepings whom it was his profession mission to save.

A Phone Call

His work finished, he lit a cigarette, fitted it carefully into an amber holder and, adjusting the cushions, lay down on the settee and smoked and thought till the telephone bell roused him and he got up.

The voice that spoke to him was quite unfamiliar.

"Is that Mr. Ingle?"

"Yes," he said shortly.

"Will you make a sacrifice of your principles?" was the astonishing request, and the man smiled sourly.

"What I have left, yes. What do you wish?"

It might be an old friend in need of money, in which case the conversation would be short. For Arthur Ingle had no foolish ideas about charity.

"Could you meet me tonight on the sidewalk immediately opposite Horse Guards Parade?"

"In the park, you mean?" asked Ingle, astonished. "Who are you? I'll tell you before you go any further that I'm not inclined to go out of my way to meet strangers. I'm a pretty tired man tonight."

"My name is — a pause — 'Harlow'."

Involuntarily Ingle uttered an exclamation.

"Stratford Harlow?" he asked incredulously.

"Yes, Stratford Harlow."

There was a long pause before Arthur Ingle spoke.

"It's rather an extraordinary request, but I realize that it isn't an idle one. How do I know you're Harlow?"

"Call me up in ten minutes at my house and ask for me," said the voice.

"Again Mr. Ingle hesitated.

"Yes, I'll come," he said. "At what time?"

"At ten o'clock exactly. I won't keep you hanging about the clock night. You can get into my car and we'll drive somewhere."

Ingle hung up the telephone a little bewildered. He was a cautious man, and after ten minutes had expired he put through the number he discovered in the phone directory, and the same voice answered him.

"Are you satisfied?"

"Yes, I'll be there — ten o'clock," he said.

He had two hours to wait. The charwomen did not arrive till nine, for Alleen had purposely fixed this late hour. They had been at the flat during the morning, and she thought it advisable to bring them in after dinner. He gave them their directions, made arrangements for the following day, and went back to the dining room to think out the extraordinary request which Stratford Harlow had made of him. And the more he thought, the less inclined he was to keep the appointment. At last he turned to his writing table, took out a sheet of paper, and scrawled a note:

Dear Mr. Harlow:

I am afraid I must disappoint you. I am in such a position, being a convict on license, that I cannot take the slightest risk. I will tell you frankly that what I have in my mind is that this may be a frame-up organized by my friends the police, and I think that it would be, to say the least, foolish on my part to go any further until I know your requirements, or at least have written proof that you have approached me.

Yours sincerely,

ARTHUR INGLE.

He put the letter in an envelope, addressed it, and marked in the corner in bold letters, "By hand, urgent." Even now he was not satisfied. He went to the telephone to call a district messenger, but did not lift the receiver. His curiosity was piqued. He felt he must know, with the least possible delay, just why Stratford Harlow had summoned Arthur Ingle, late of Dartmoor convict establishment. And why should the meeting be secret? A man of Harlow's standing would not lose caste, even if he sent for him to go to his house. He came to a sudden resolve, pitched the letter onto the table, and going into his bedroom, changed into a dark suit.

No Frame-Up

By the time he had climbed into his overcoat he was satisfied that he was taking the wisest course. The two charwomen were in the kitchen, and he opened the door to pass his last admonition. The younger of the two was on her knees, scrubbing brush in hand, and he looked down into a long, weak face over which strayed lank wisps of gray-black hair.

"I'm going out. You needn't wait. Finish your work and be here in the morning before 8," he barked, and slammed the door on these inconsequential members of the proletariat, and went down the stairs in a spirit of adventure that made him feel almost young.

As the Horse Guards clock was chiming the three-quarters he came into Birdcage Walk and turned along the lonely footpath that runs parallel with the Horse Guards and flanks the broad parade ground. There was no hurry; he felt into a gentle stroll, fast enough to keep him warm and to avoid any suspicion of loitering within the meaning of the act. A policeman passed him, and he was reminded that he had not reported to the local station, and cursed the system that still held him by a fine chain to Dartmoor.

It could not be a frame-up, he had decided. A man of Harlow's character would hardly lend himself to such a plot, and in his heart of hearts, for all his bitter gibes at the police, he did not believe seriously in the prison legend of innocent men being trapped by cunning police plots.

He looked at his watch under a street standard; it was five minutes to 10, and he strolled back the way he had come, and stopped immediately in a line with the gates that closed the arch of the Horse Guards. As he did so a limousine came noiselessly along the sidewalk from the direction of Westminster. It stopped in front of him and the door opened.

"Will you come in, Mr. Ingle?" said a low voice, and without a word he stepped inside, pulling the door close after him, and sank down on a soft seat by the side of a man who, he at once recognized, was that Splendid Harlow, whose name, even in Dartmoor, symbolized wealth beyond dreams.

The car, gathering speed, turned into the Mall, swung round to Buckingham Palace and across the Corner into Hyde Park. It slackened speed now, and Stratford Harlow began to talk.

For an hour the car moved at a leisurely pace round the circle. Sleep was falling, and before they had gone far the park was deserted. Ingle listened like a man in a dream to the amazing proposition which his companion advanced.

He, at any rate, could listen in comfort. Inspector Jim Carlton, crouched precariously on the back of the machine, had less comfort and far less fortune. The sleet soaked and chilled him, and the microphone attachment that he had fixed by vacuum to the car back failed to carry through horsehair and leather of the back cushion the talk it was so vital he should hear.

Arthur Ingle arrived home at his flat soon after 11. The hired women were gone, and he was glad; dull clouds as they were, unimagined but people, they might have read and interpreted the light that shone in his eyes or have sensed the exultation of his heart.

Brewing himself some coffee, he sat down at his desk and began to make notes. Once he rose and, entering his bedroom, turned on the light above his dressing table, stared at himself for five minutes in the glass. The scrutiny seemed to afford him a certain amount of satisfaction, for he smiled and returned to his notemaking.

That smile did not leave his lips, and once he laughed out loud. Evidently something had happened that afforded him the most exquisite happiness.

Bearded Sikhs And Gurkhas Will Give Italians Real Scrap

Now that Fascist Italy has made good her boasts and threats, and entered the war on the side of Nazi Germany, she is going to have a real scrap on her hands with the immense Allied army, estimated at 750,000 to 1,000,000 troops, which has been doing the "watchful waiting" act in Syria and Mediterranean key positions. This is the opinion of Major Horatio F. Chisholm, former British Vice-Consul at Cleveland, Ohio.

Among the units in that great Allied army in the Mediterranean area, which Italy will have to combat, are many troops from British India—bearded Sikhs and Gurkhas, whose fighting qualities have been tested and proven in more than one campaign. Major Chisholm has a deep respect for the fighting men of India, gained from a first-hand knowledge of India and her people. He served the British Government in an official capacity in India for a number of years being stationed at Bangalore (the City of Beans), in Mysore State. He has travelled extensively in India.

"The native soldier of India is a great fighter," said Major Chisholm. "He has wonderful powers of endurance and remarkable tenacity. They say the Italians will know they've been in a fight when they meet the Turks; they're also going to know it when they run up against those Sikhs and Gurkhas."

U-Boat Commander Leaves Struggling Victims To Perish In The Water

The navy press section declared that a U-boat commander and his crew after torpeding a British merchant vessel May 27 watched the crew of 36 struggling in the water for half an hour before leaving the helpless seamen to their fate.

The press statement said that all but five perished before a neutral ship arrived. It described the treatment of the men as "one of the foulest acts ever perpetrated by a U-boat commander and his crew."

The statement said the ship sank in two minutes, leaving no time to get the boats clear. The statement did not identify the merchantman.

The statement added that the German U-boat commander drove his craft among the men struggling in the water "to ask survivors the name of their ship and to give members of his crew an opportunity to take photographs of his unfortunate victims."

"And while they did so, the U-boat commander stationed two men with bathhooks to fend off and jab at the wretched men who tried to clamber on board, thinking the U-boat had come to pick them up."

"For about half an hour this went on. The submarine steamed away, leaving helpless British seamen to their fate in the rough sea."

Twenty-four hours later, the statement said, a neutral ship picked up five men. The other 31 perished.

Tribute To British Fleet

French Paper Has High Praise For Its Effectiveness

In a leading article entitled "La Grandeur Britannique," the "Temps" states: "The remarkable exploits of the British fleet have put an end to the legend of German invincibility. They have equally destroyed other legends that enemy propaganda has been trying to build up in order vainly to shake the Anglo-French entente and shake the confidence of all free peoples in the resolution and determination of Great Britain. The irretrievable British decadence and that other lie, that England was making the French people fight for egotistic British interests, will no longer serve, not even in the eyes of the most ignorant among the masses."

"The British people are still the same as they have been in the greatest hours of their history; they are fighting like the French for a high ideal of liberty and justice."

Canada's Asbestos

Production Increased 40 Per Cent. To Meet War Needs

Canada is one of the few countries that is blessed with large and workable deposits of asbestos. And that fact was never so pleasant to consider as right now. War is making exceptional demands upon the Canadian asbestos industry, but that industry is bearing up nicely under the strain. Under the strain, that is, of having to increase its output something like 40 per cent. Asbestos production in Canada during January, 1940, amounted to 26,651 tons; in January, 1939, it was a mere 18,780 tons. The fires of war are raging, and where there is fire the protection of asbestos is needed.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Arabs Are Loyal

Two hundred sheiks and leading Arabs representing all regions of Palestine and Trans-Jordan met recently at the home of Fakir Bey Nashahib, leader of the Palestine Defence party, and pledged support to the Allies.

Pucksters Run Wild at Fernie

Seaman Handcuffs Opponents While Team Mates Score 29 Runs.

The largest score ever made in a ball game in many years was made on Sunday afternoon when Coleman Pucksters travelled to Fernie and handed the B.C. nine the worst shellacking in their history. Final score, Coleman 29, Fernie 2.

Marconi started for Coleman, but was weak, and Angelo pulled him from the box in favor of Seaman. Fernie in the meantime having scored two runs. Seaman displayed last year's form, and held Fernie scoreless while his team mates went scoring wild. When the smoke of battle had cleared and the scorekeeper had secured the loan of an adding machine, the official decision was given out as 29-2 for Coleman.

Pucksters seem to be a hot and cold team this year. A week ago last Sunday Fernie came to Coleman and trimmed Pucksters 3-2. Pucksters then travel to Fernie and administer a sound trouncing to their opponents.

Pucksters will travel to Lethbridge on Sunday, where they will play an exhibition game with the Lethbridge Miners. It is hoped to have Miners pay a return game in the near future.

GUSHUL'S PHOTOS AROUSE ADMIRATION

In the Crows' Nest Pass supplement of last Saturday's issue of the Lethbridge Herald, there was a fine photograph (copyrighted) of Crows' Nest Mountain and Lake, by Thomas Gushul, of Blaimore. It is the finest photograph seen of this famous scenic spot, and copies may be obtained from the studio. Framed, they would make fine souvenirs or presents at any time.

WEDDINGS

At St. Luke's church, Blaimore, on Saturday, June 15, William Hirst and May Phillips, both of Coleman, were married by Rev. John R. Hague. Witnesses were Thomas Poxton and Alberta Phillips. They left for Calgary on a short honeymoon trip, and will live in their new home in Grafton town.

About 8 a.m. last Saturday, Miss Yuill and a number of healthy, vivacious girls from school went on a hike over the hills and dales, spending a very enjoyable day in the scenic surroundings of the district. A very fine way to spend Saturday in health, giving exercise and comradeship.

The Journal reporter in Grafton town states that Jack Poxton was elected mayor of that suburb by acclamation.

Miss Yuill Reports on Junior Red Cross

Cameron School,
June 17, 1940.

Mr. Halliwell,

The Coleman Journal.

Dear Sir: The Cameronians, Junior Red Cross branch of West Coleman, have completed a successful year, and would be pleased if you would print the following report.

Following contributions were made to the children of the Junior Red Cross Hospital: Christmas gift of fruit, valentines for the patients, $30 from the sale of 300 calendars, 18 pairs of stockings (gift of Mrs. Fred Antrobus), 4 yards of material for underclothing, 30 dozen eggs, and a rug made by Frank Gajdos for boy ward. To the local Miners' hospital: flowers at Christmas and Easter, eggs at Easter; bundles of magazines, candies, soft drinks and cigarettes to the patients, also schoolmates. Donation to the Bellevue Christmas fund. For war service: 9 Christmas gifts to former pupils of Cameron school, who had enlisted; 5 Easter gifts to the soldiers, $4.20 to help the Finnish children, $6.00 to buy blankets for refugees in France (grades 1 to 6 helped in these donations), 90 personal bags, 32 pairs of wristlets, 11 scarfs, 68 handkerchiefs, 8 wash clothes. Helped in collecting money on tag day, sold tickets for the Red Cross dance, helped to make the hall decorations for the dance, and collected enough money to send a package of candies, gum and cigarettes to the ex-Cameron school soldiers.

They have already thanked those who so kindly helped them, but they do so again. Without the help of the parents and friends it would be impossible to accomplish so much.

Yours, etc.
Secretary.

Now you can do your bit in the war. By purchasing War Savings Certificates you are providing our government with funds which are urgently needed to supply ammunition, tanks, airplanes, and other implements of war to the men who are fighting our battles overseas. Make the regular purchase of War Savings Certificates a habit.
